Standing on the famous site of Amsterdam's former Sweelinck Conservatory of Music, the Conservatorium hotel opened at the end of 2011.

This magnificent Neo-Gothic building was originally built at the end of the 19th Century and in its new incarnation, it has been transformed into a contemporary luxury lifestyle hotel.

Located in the heart of Amsterdam's museum district (Museumplein) on Van Baerlestraat, the Conservatorium hotel is close to The Rijksmuseum, the Van Gogh Museum and the Royal Concertgebouw. Also, the luxury shopping avenues, P.C Hooftstraat and Van Baerlestraat, sit right on the hotel's doorstep as well as the charming Vondelpark and the lanes of the Jordaan neighbourhood. The historic centre of the city is within walking or cycling distance. Amsterdam's business district 'Zuidas' is easily accessible from the hotel and the international Schiphol airport is a mere 20 minute drive.

The building was originally designed by the Dutch architect Daniel Knuttel as the Rijkspostspaarbank and sparked the regeneration of the Museum Quarter at the end of the 19th century.

In 1897, the building was constructed for 120,310 florins (54,600 Euro), and was soon transformed into a defining icon of the city's architectural and cultural hub, whose development was further aided by the horse trams that began connecting the centre of Amsterdam with the Van Baerlestraat.

In a vision to restore and enhance its former beauty, award winning Milan based designer, Piero Lissoni, guided the creation of the hotel. Rich with historical narrative, Lissoni has woven modernity with the utmost care into the existing fabric. The Conservatorium hotel is once again on the pulse of the city's cultural and architectural heartbeat.
